British Wildlife Photography Awards

The British Wildlife Photography Awards were established to recognise the talents of photographers practising in Britain, whilst at the same time highlighting the great wealth and diversity of Britain's natural history.

This highly acclaimed and unique wildlife photography exhibition captivates visitors with the outstanding and beautiful imagery. It is a celebration of British wildlife as well as a showcase for the country's leading nature photographers and this is the first time a photographic show has brought together such a comprehensive collection of stunning wildlife imagery from all over the UK and is uniquely British.

With eleven separate categories (including a new video category) covering everything from marine life and animal behaviour to creepy crawlies and urban wildlife; the show reveals the unseen splendour and surprising diversity of Britain's wildlife, tinged with some humour and much affection. There are also two special junior categories to encourage young people to connect to nature through photography.

This annual exhibition has been described as a 'must see exhibition' that's 'loved by visitors'.

Opportunities

The exhibition provides a platform onto which other events can be planned such as AV shows, film screenings, lectures, educational activities and VIP/corporate events.

BWPA's high media profile and partner network including leading environmental organisations (RSPB, WWF, The Wildlife Trusts and more) could create many opportunities including:

- The chance to demonstrate corporate social responsibility and a green ethos
- The creation of a platform from which to launch local learning programmes
- Association with a serious commitment to improving Britain's natural heritage nationally and locally
- Opportunity to host talks and involve local groups and initiatives
- Opportunity to sell retail product and increase revenue streams
